Auto Workers to Strike; Rails on Schedule

To Ask Union Heads to Help Run Railroads

Washington, May 11 (AP)—Army Secretary Royall, boss of the railroads under government operation, said today he will name a railroad management advisory board to help him run them.

Royall reported to a news conference that the roads are operating in normal fashion. Bans against shipment of perishable goods—such as livestock and fresh produce—were lifted. Most railroads put on such bans last week-end because of the strike called by three operating brotherhoods for 6 a. m. (local railroad time) today.

The unions withdrew their strike order last night after the government seized the railroads and got an order from Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough forbidding a strike. Goldsborough is the judge who twice fined John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers for disobeying court orders.

While Royall was talking with reporters at the Pentagon building, leaders of the three unions were holding their own news conference at the Mayflower Hotel. The main points they made:

1. Only a wage settlement can entirely remove the possibility of a rail strike. Arthur J. Glover, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, said emphatically that the anti-strike court order secured by the government was what stopped a walkout; seizure of the roads alone would not have stopped a strike.
2. They are looking now to Royall.

U. S. Trying to Head Off Auto Walkout

Detroit, May 11 (AP)—The CIO Auto Workers today set 9 a. m. (EST) Wednesday for a walkout of 75,000 Chrysler Corp. employees in the absence of a wage demand settlement.

Meanwhile, government mediators continued talks with company and union negotiators in efforts to head off a strike of workers in 16 plants.

Norman R. Matthews, UAW-CIO Chrysler director, announced the hour for the strike with only 24 hours remaining to reach an agreement.

Matthews said the union would continue negotiations until 6:30 p. m. (EST) tonight when the UAW representatives must report to the union's 100-man national Chrysler conference.

The conference was called to meet on a "stand-by" basis to receive any Chrysler offer or map strategy.

Matthews did not rule out the possibility of further negotiations with Chrysler following the union report tonight to the conference.

Hopes of averting the automobile industry's first major strike in two years rested precariously on mediators' attempts to resolve the UAW's demand for a 30-cent hourly raise and Chrysler's refusal of any increase at all.

Acting, however, the difference standing in the way of an agreement is only 12 1/2 cents. Chrysler offered a six-cent raise several weeks ago but withdrew it after the union rejected it. And to get the union to accept the offer, Chrysler said it would not consider any increase in the future.

Both the company and union have reverted to their original positions. But mediators consider any commitments made in negotiations as an indication of willingness to compromise.

Heading the union delegation in final bargaining sessions in Emil Mazey, UAW secretary-treasurer and acting president since Walter Chrysler died. Robert W. Dunder, director of labor relations who had been bargaining since Feb. 27, had been delegated "full authority" to negotiate an agreement.

Yesterday's two brief meetings, played by Royall, were exploratory, produced no reports of progress. Everyone seemed hopeful despite a union statement that "not one cent" had been offered.

Threatened Strike in Stockyard Is Averted

Chicago, May 11 (AP)—A threatened strike of 400 CIO stockyard workers at the world's largest stockyards in Chicago was averted last night, four hours before the 12:01 a. m. strike deadline.

Frank Monahan, president of local 44 CIO stockhandlers Union, which claims 400 members, said the union had accepted a new contract which provides for a wage increase of six cents an hour.

Monahan said the pay raises were retroactive to last April 4. He said the stockhandlers, who load, unload, weigh and drive cattle to and from the pens and chutes with the stockyard averaged about $1.05 hourly under the old contract.

The union is affiliated with the CIO Packinghouse Workers Union which has been on strike since March 16.

Monahan said the packers, along with the major packers, were retroactive to last April 4.

Arab Leaders Seek to Save City of Jaffa

Jerusalem, May 11 (UP)—Arab military leaders in Palestine, rocked by two major defeats within the past 24 hours, have sought to save the big port city of Jaffa from Jewish capture by declaring it an open city, it was reported today.

A dispatch from Tel Aviv said the Arab Emergency Committee sought Jewish intervention with Jewish Haganah commanders to declare Jaffa an open city. It was understood the Jews refused.

Under the Arab plan, Jaffa would be removed as an objective from any final struggle for Palestine after the British lay down their mandate at midnight Friday.

Jaffa, a city of 101,580 before the partition plan was announced, has been ringed by Jewish forces from neighboring Tel Aviv. It has been reported that a huge convoy of Arab civilians, Jaffa was saved from Jewish capture by British troops who halted a combined Haganah-Irgun Zvai Leumi offensive.

Within the past 24 hours, the Arabs have lost the major northern road center of Safad to Jewish attack. Jewish forces also routed the Arabs at Bab El Wad, 12 miles west of Jerusalem, after a three-day battle in which 200 Arabs were reported killed.

Jewish traffic between Jerusalem and Tel Aviv was reopened for the first time in three weeks when engineers removed a massive road block at Bab El Wad after the battle.

The first supply convoy in three weeks formed in Tel Aviv last night and started at dawn to make the hazardous run to Jerusalem.

Under the same circumstances, a convoy of empty trucks together with dozens of buses which had been stranded in Jerusalem, left the Holy City for Tel Aviv with many prominent Jews aboard.

Jewish fighters occupied the last ridges along the Bal El Wad ravine at 7 p. m. last night driving off an Arab army estimated at up to 7,000 men.

Report from Beirut said the Arab liberation army admitted that Jewish forces had captured Safad, key road center in northern Palestine, after a bloody 10-day battle.

About 40,000 people can crowd into the cathedral at Milan, Italy.

Trusty Guards Shoot Escaping Negro Convict

Pine Bluff, May 11 (UP)—A young escaped Negro convict was shot and killed by trusty guards from Cummins prison farm about daylight today near Jefferson Springs in Jefferson County.

Capt. Tom Cogbill, superintendent of the farm, said 38-year-old George W. Dennis, who was serving a life term for murder, was killed instantly when he refused to halt at the order of a guard.

Meanwhile, funeral services were held in Grady for Mrs. William D. Besau, 37-year-old mother of three children, who was killed Sunday night by a bullet intended for Dennis.

The Negro had been apprehended by Grady by city marshal George Dennis and taken to prison farm. Dennis said they were taking the prisoner to a drug store to use a telephone when Flood broke away. Dennis said he and the other guards fired at the bullets killed Mrs. Besau instantly.

Flood made good his second escape and the search for him continued near Dexter in Jefferson county.

"We lost him in the woods yesterday and gave up the search when it began to rain and the dogs could not keep the scent," Cogbill said.

Between 15 and 20 guards went back to the area at daylight today, intending to surround the patch of woods where Flood was thought to be hiding.

Flood fled from the woods before the men could get into position and was shot with a high-powered rifle when he refused to halt.

"He hadn't had anything to eat for a couple of days," Cogbill said, "and had to come out."

The area north of Pine Bluff, was densely wooded.

Parole Director W. P. Ball said Flood was convicted in Ouachita county in 1946 on a burglary and grand larceny charge. Paroled in 1947, he was serving time on an additional grand larceny sentence when he escaped.

625 Students of Agriculture Visit Hope

Hope, Ark. May 11—625 high school boys from southern Arkansas, including 12 counties, all students of vocational agriculture, are in Hope today, visiting the Fruit and Truck Branch Experiment Station of the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture. This is study day for the Future Farmers of America, and the boys, accompanied by their instructors, are here to see what's new in farm research.

The morning program consisted of a tour of the station, with six stops at points of special interest. During the afternoon they met in the amphitheatre at the station.

The boys will hear greetings from Seymour, District Supervisor, Vocational Agriculture, and Cecil M. Bittle, Station Superintendent. Addresses by J. Marion Adams, State Director, Vocational Education, and S. D. Mitchell, State F.F.A. Executive Secretary, will be given.

During the tour this morning, the boys saw some of the work being done at the station on bramble production, pasture improvement, soil erosion control, vegetable production management, farm woodlands and farm insect control.

At each stop, someone familiar with the work discussed it with the boys. Taking part in these discussions were Dr. V. M. Watts, Prof. of Horticulture, University of Arkansas, Dr. J. E. Valle, Assoc. Prof. of Horticulture, University of Arkansas, Russell Lewellen, Instructor, Vet. Agr. Program, John Keck, Unit Leader, Soil Conservation, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Dr. Charles G. Lincoln, Extension Entomologist and Robert E. Nelson of the Agricultural Extension Service.

Tomorrow, 750 negro boys enrolled in NFA work and negro veterans are expected to visit the station, and on Thursday, a special study day will be held for veterans taking on-the-job farm training in southwestern Arkansas, according to Cecil M. Bittle, superintendent of the Hope station.

Dixiecrats Set to Hold Convention

Jackson, Miss., May 11 (UP)—Southern Democrats today were ready to hold their own Dixiecrat convention in Birmingham, Ala., on July 17 if the national party convention adopts a civil rights platform plank.

In states' rights conference here yesterday, some 1,500 Southern party leaders resolved to urge every state below the Mason-Dixon line to choose convention delegates who electors pledge to "publicly repudiate" President Truman's civil rights program.

The resolution, passed with apparent unanimity amid shouting and stamping of feet, included a pledge for the Birmingham convention in case the national party nominates Mr. Truman or any other candidate with similar civil rights views.

The date for the provisional Dixiecrat meeting was set for just one week after the national convention begins at Philadelphia July 12.

Eleven states were represented.

Pictures Have a Never-Failing Appeal to the Human Mind—An Appeal Stronger Than Words

Other it is usually in terms of pictures.

This has given a new status to the news photographer, who lives by the old Chinese proverb, "a picture is worth ten thousand words."

His camera can't take the advance gamble out of a horse race or a political campaign. But it can tell beyond a quibble which horse won. And sometimes it can foretell which man will win.

A campaign picture by a photographer you never hear of may crystallize your preference and lead you to say:

"I like him. That's the man for me."

Coolidge posed for pictures wearing an Indian headdress. They looked ridiculous, but the average reaction was, "He wants to show he's a good guy." Herbert Hoover's best pictures have been taken since he left the White House. He rarely poses for photographers, but often as president he drew a line beyond which they couldn't go. As a result the pictures became more noticeably alike. They lacked warmth.

Today all presidential candidates have adopted the policy of Franklin Roosevelt and the late Mayor La Guardia, voted by camera men as the most photogenic political personalities of recent years.

"We can snap them as we see them," said Harry Harris, president of the New York Photographers Association.

We don't like a lens loose anywhere that we do a guy who hides from a camera. All we want is for them to be natural and let us shoot the pictures as they come. That shows them to the people exactly as they are.

And every candidate is cooperating. Why not? If they take a picture of him kissing one baby he can convince a million mothers he loves children without bussing the other 999,999. It gives a candidate time to go home and kiss his own children.

Mass Burial for Crash Victims Is Planned

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 11 (AP)—Mass burial of 11 Army Air Corps fliers, killed in a bomber crash during World War II, was to be held at National Cemetery this afternoon.

They died July 30, 1942, when their plane, engaged in patrol duty on the Pacific approach to the Panama Canal, crashed on Pinzen island.

The group included: Pvt. Albert W. Anderson of Hunter, Ark.

3rd Street to Be Blacktopped in June or July

The State Highway Department doesn't have the money to build a heavy concrete slab pavement clear through Hope on Third street. It would cost $150,000—but the state is going to lay a high-type blacktop surfacing on this U. S. 47 route through town starting the last of June or the first of July, it was announced today.

This decision was announced early this afternoon by A. E. Johnson, chief engineer and C. C. White, maintenance engineer, Little Rock, following an inspection of Third street about noon.

The state executives cruised the street along with Charles A. Armistead, secretary of Hope Chamber of Commerce, and Talbot Feild, Jr., state representative, members of a special committee for the local chamber.

The state men pointed out that Arkansas had paid $24,000 for the widening of Third street and construction of new curbing, under a city-supervised contract.

It is proposed now to repair bad drainage situations on Third street and lay down blacktop surfacing by the last of next month.

Steelworkers Meet to Plan 1949 Strategy

Boston, May 11 (AP)—After demanding that the country's steelmakers increase their annual production by nearly 10 per cent, the CIO steelworkers today opened a convention which is due to shape one of the major patterns in the wage demands upon American industry.

The CIO's biggest union, 920,000 members—sent 3,200 delegates here.

They were greeted last night by an official report blasting the steel industry as the nation's "real bottleneck" and announcing a union "second front" in politics.

The report said that steelworkers and National CIO President Philip Murray and other union leaders, attacked the steel industry for "phony" production boosts since 1945.

It turned on American business as a whole over what the report called an attempt to "freeze" wages, when profits are "fantastic."

The report said:

"Today steel shortages mean less work for automobile workers, electrical workers, metal fabricators, miners and a host of other workers and industries dependent on the volume of steel supplies."

It called for:

"Immediate expansion of basic steelmaking facilities to support additional annual steel production of at least 10,000,000 tons of ingots."

"We want a real increase and an adequate increase, not a paper one or puny increase."

The report put January 1948 ingot capacity at 94,233,460 tons and said the steel industry was producing at a quarter tons below the wartime peak.

The officers' statement said that the union "second front" would be a "deadly serious assault on the political 'hacks of business'" and added that in this presidential election year:

"Failure of the people to vote is clearly an invitation to disaster at the hands of the servants of corporate wealth and bigotry."

After estimating 1947 net corporate profits in the U. S. as "a new peak" of 17.4 billion dollars, the steelworkers officers added "x x x" free to rise as much as the market will bear.

"It should be remembered by those who insist on freezing the present relationship between productivity and wages that the present balance x x x is one in large part created by business alone prior to the emergency of strong unions in America's mass industries."

2,000 Dnieper Boats Recovered

Moscow (AP)—The newspaper "Soviet Lithuania" says 2,000 vessels have been raised from the river Dnieper since the war. The ships include the powerful motorships "Osipenko," "Krasnaya," which were sent to the Red Army by the Germans.

Bid to Russia No New Move in U.S. Policy

Washington, May 11 (AP)—President Truman said today the American bid to Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov for decent and reasonable relations between the two countries "represented no new departure in American policy."

The president's statement did not indicate whether the note of Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith to Molotov May 4 might be construed as an American proposal for discussion and settlement of existing differences between the two nations.

The two main points of the statement by Smith, Mr. Truman said, were these:

1. "The policies of the United States government in international questions have been made amply clear in recent months and weeks. They have the support of the overwhelming majority of the American people. They will continue to be vigorously and firmly prosecuted."
2. "On the other hand this government wishes to make it unmistakably clear that the United States has no hostile or aggressive designs whatsoever with respect to the Soviet Union."

In responding to Smith's statement, Radio Moscow said the Soviet Union is ready to pursue a "policy of peace and cooperation with the United States."

The Soviet further interpreted the Smith note as a bid for discussion and settlement of existing differences which have split the postwar world.

The Moscow broadcast said Molotov had agreed to the proposal for talks ascribed to the United States.

The State Department today disclosed that Smith gave Molotov a 500-word oral response to the Soviet foreign minister's reply to the original American note.

At no point in this latest move in Moscow did Smith encourage any hope on the part of the Russians that the American government would enter at this time into negotiations with the Russians for an overall settlement of differences between the two countries.

What Smith said originally was that it was hoped to find the basis of a "decent and reasonable relationship" between the two nations.

He added that "the door is always wide open for full discussion and the composing of our differences."

Apparently, the State Department's purpose in releasing Smith's latest statement to Molotov was to try to show that the U. S. is not proposing to compromise its policy at any point in seeking a settlement with Russia.

And since Russia in its note was officially regarded here as showing no tendency to compromise, American officials said they had difficulty at this time in trying to discuss what basis a meeting might be usefully held.

U. S. Action for Better Relation Excites Russia

Moscow, May 11 (AP)—Announcement that Russia and the United States have expressed readiness to try to patch up their quarrel excited excitement among the Russian people today. American observers here attached great significance to the development.

Newspaper stands sold out as soon as editions appearing carrying the story. Laborers and office workers on their way to their jobs lined up at the newsstands for their copies. Many read the story as they walked along the streets.

The Russian people gave wide publicity to the development, without editorial comment. The newspapers announced that the United States had suggested a two-power meeting to discuss the state of Soviet-American relations, and that Russia had accepted.

The Russian people appeared to welcome the news that "the Soviet government views favorably the desire of the government of the U. S. A. to improve these relations." These were the words of the Tass News Agency's version of Russia's statement to U. S. Ambassador W. Bedell Smith.

American observers warn that this of course will not solve everything. The Russian note said the Soviet Union is unable to agree that the present tension is caused by the policy of the U. S. S. R. in the Far East. The Russian note said the Soviet Union would continue a policy of consolidating relations with countries of eastern Europe just as the United States "is also pursuing a policy of consolidating relations with neighboring countries."

At about the time the newspapers were appearing on the streets, Ambassador Smith was at the airport, taking off for a fishing trip in France. Smith had left with his family, Charles D. Affaire Elbridge Durbrow and members of the embassy staff (at the time the staff members had not learned of the Soviet announcement although they knew of Smith's recent conversation with Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov).

The first of the embassy group to hear the Russian announcement was Mrs. Smith, who said: "I heard it all places from the all India Radio."

NEW YORK COTTON

New York, May 11—(AP)—Cotton futures turned lower today, following early gains into new seasonal high ground. Considerable commission house and New Orleans profit taking was encouraged by the earlier advance and traders were inclined to attribute the sell-off to technical reasons.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

Chicago, May 11—(AP)—Corn and oat prices advanced on the board of trade today, but rallies in wheat were not sustained. Light country offerings of corn, placed at 20,000 bushels, combined with shrinking visible supplies to develop short covering in the yellow cereal.

Oats showed some independent strength at the opening and then followed the lead of corn.

Wheat was under pressure during the greater part of the session. The commodity credit corporation reduced its buying price a half cent at Kansas City, and traders had reports of more liberal country offerings of old crop grain.

Soybeans advanced the daily limit of 8 cents. A closing rally in what brought prices up and the bread grain finished unchanged to 1-2 cent higher than the previous close, May $2.43-1-3-44. Corn was 1 7-8 to 4 1-2 cents higher, May $2.25 34-26. Oats were 1 1-8 to 2 1-8 higher, May $1.15 36-1-4. Soybeans were 2 1-2 to 1 3-4 cents higher, May $3.93.

Cash wheat followed futures action today; basis nominally unchanged; bookings 20,000 bushels; shipping sales 37,000 bushels; receipts 42 cars. Oats were unchanged; basis one to two cents lower; receipts 22 cars. Soybeans receipts 10 cars.

brains and German inventions. On the other hand, there are some obvious factors that detract from the Soviet military potential. The committee report notes current shortages of steel and oil—though, in event of war, Russia could do much to remedy one of them by walking into oil-rich defenseless Iran.

While Russia's industrial output may be back to normal, her gross national product is still only about one-seventh of ours, according to the committee figures. And it may be assumed that the industrial inefficiency that has plagued the Soviets so long has not been cured overnight.

Russia had a good harvest last year. But farming is not nearly so mechanized there as here. In case of war, farm work would keep millions from more directly military activities. The committee also states that the Russians are hampered by a shortage of transportation facilities.

Then there is the big question of guided missiles, and the bigger question of atomic weapons behind the iron curtain.

From the available knowledge, it appears that the Soviet Union, mighty as it is in many ways, is also vulnerable in some vital spots. At the same time, the speed and direction of Russian recovery suggest that there may be danger in the calm assumption that Russia could not go to war within five years. They also suggest the danger of gearing the speed of our own defense preparations to that assumption.

Two Justices Disagree With Court Decree

Little Rock, May 11—(AP)—Two Arkansas Supreme Court justices dissented yesterday to the court's reversal of one of its own opinions. Justices Frank G. Smith and Ed F. McFaddin disagreed with their colleagues in a ruling which set aside a previous decree of the court in a Jefferson county land case.

The dissents were not noted on the majority opinion, as customarily is done. They were recorded on the court's syllabus, an official brief record of the day's transactions.

Don'ts a Bride Needs

This season is producing the all high crop of brides, and while every little bobby-soxer is certain that she will be the perfect wife who knows by inspiration just how to handle a husband and keep a marriage running on greased skids, still and all there may be an obstacle or so in the path to domestic bliss on which it is advisable to hang a few signs of warning.

Not that any bride is going to take advice as offered, but long, long afterwards, say about the time when Mother is wrestling with the third baby proposition and Husband has gotten so wedded to his newspaper that he forgets that his wife would enjoy a little conversation, she will come back and sit under the shade of the Tree of Wisdom and wish she had listened to Grandma. So here are a few DON'Ts that I hand, for free, to the newlyweds that may perhaps keep them from stubbing their toes as they walk down the rocky road that every young wife has to travel.

his ego by criticizing everything he does. It isn't cricket for a wife to take the milk coat her husband gives her unless she smooths his fur the right way.
When you marry don't have a chip on your shoulder for your husband's people. Every bride knows that if her husband has any decent human feelings about him, he honors and respects the father who has failed to give him his chance in the world, and loves the mother who bore him and the sisters and brothers he grew up with, and that his dearest wish is for his wife to be one of the family. Don't be one of the angry wives who turn up their noses at Mom and Pop and the girls. It is the one thing your husband will never forgive you.

And the DON'Ts all boil down into the one DON'T, which is not to marry a man unless you love him well enough to face whatever comes in life without groaning.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler
Copyright, 1947
By King Features Syndicate.

Without prejudice, I find Felix Frankfurter's fighting on my side against collusion by the Department of Justice in cases involving political proteges of the Democratic party.

In brief review, I have plainly set forth reasons to believe that the department refrained from doing its best in the enforcement of laws against unions and unionists. Such defendants are political partners in crime of the department, brigades licensed by the party in power to rob and extort, on percentage agreement.

Specific cases have been cited and discussed in which the department obviously favored crooks whom it was supposed to prosecute. Since the thirties, when tax cases against the Huey Long gang were abandoned in a deal quantity called the second Louisiana purchase, the prosecution of members of the sordid family of the New South has been more affectionate than hostile. The punishment has been scant where there was any penalty at all for crimes done.

As a disgraceful case in point, I give you the lenient treatment of the union rogues who finally were convicted in the shakedown of the moving picture union but, in the dark of the moon, were let loose untimely. The jail delivery of the last batch of these Chicago cut-throats frustrates the parole which was vigorously done. Here, Boris Kostolantsev caught his victim and caged them away, but political impulses from the Department of Justice clicked the locks and they were released.

They did their minimum terms, and out they walked. Meanwhile, political prisoners who had shown reverence for Roosevelt had been passed by long after they had become ineligible for parole. This means that the Department of Justice will protect criminal friends of the party and punish its political enemies.

This is not a figure of speech. I have a persistent way of inching up to objectives. My charge that the department is doing this will be vindicated just as my charge that Roosevelt was a common swindler in the grand jury sense of the word was proved in the Hartford case. My charge of limited devotion to the Bill of Rights in the principles of Henry Wallace and of more spectacular vagaries in this picturesque mountebank was resented by followers of intellectual rage here. Jim Cross liberals who themselves haven't had the moral stamina to withstand his incoherent prattle. They don't understand him, to be sure, but they are sure his message is virtuous, perhaps divine. Another example, not of cowardice but of initiative, death with the queer editorial practices of the New York Herald Tribune, ostensible winter. Within three months thereafter, Joseph Barnes, who dominated the paper's policies and, in the sense of many authentic Republicans, polluted it, "bought" it, interest in the journalistic monstrosity known as Marshall Field's thing, the most consistent agitator of racial and religious sensitiveness and fury in the United States.

Accustomed to standing alone I was neither comforted nor angry at an intrusion when Frankfurter kicked up a nasty public row in the supreme court hearing on that portion of the Taft-Hartley law which forbids unions to spend funds to corrupt elections. I called that one, defying a threat of contempt, I was no more right for Frankfurter's joining me than I was when I stood alone challenging the department's conduct of the case and despising the opinion of Judge Ben Moore. I wish, however, that since Frankfurter did concur in my suspicions and started to say something about it through the gavel that stopped him.

By permitting Chief Justice Vinson to choke him off, Justice Frankfurter left the country to its suspicions. He seemed to imply that the Department of Justice acted in collusion with the defendant C. I. O. and its president, Philip Murray, in rushing the case to the supreme court for a showdown. That was what they would have desired. He seemed to me to imply, further, that he anticipated an arbitrary political decision by the Supreme court in favor of the defendants. So do I. Speed was important so that the C. I. O. could confidently throw millions into the presidential and congressional campaigns. The law itself became the defendant in place of the C. I. O. and Murray. Friendless before the court, defended by its political enemy, the Taft-Hartley act had little chance.

Not all citizens are naive enough to believe that this judge was innocently plucked from Charleston, W. Va., by the personal selection of Chief Justice Vinson to come to Washington for a spell of lawing

Home Run Records May Be Smashed

By CARL LUNDAQUIST
New York, May 11 — (UP) — Things don't always come off as advertised, but it is quite possible that the home run smashing in the big series starting today between the Indians and Yankees will be terrific even in the house that Babe Ruth built.

The Babe, it seems, doesn't have the exclusive patent on home runs any more. And if things keep going as they have to date, it could be that his historic mark of 60 homers in a season, plus a lot of others in the books, will be surpassed.

These two teams which have designs primarily on the American League pennant, with home runs being merely a means to an end, are the ones leading the early season round trip parade.

Cleveland, pacing the American League race with 11 victories in 15 games, has collected 28 homers in that span, which is seven ahead of the 1947 record-setting pace of the New York Giants. The Giants marked up an all-time major league team record of 221 homers for the season, but in their first 15 games last year they connected for 51 homers.

And the Yankees, swinging for the fences as they did in that olden, golden era featuring Ruth & Co., rank next in the majors with 23 homers in 17 games, also ahead of the 1947 Giants who didn't get their 23rd homer until their 18th game.

The Giants, of course, aren't doing too badly in the home run department even if they are lagging with Walker Cooper, one of their "big bats," out indefinitely with a knee injury and "King" Johnny Mize having been temporarily disabled, they still have a respectable mark of 21 homers for 18 games.

The rest of the clubs are chipping in, too, with 107 homers to date in the American and 104 in the National. At that rate, both leagues will go over their all-time high totals and will surpass the major league mark of 1,571 for a season set in 1940.

The Indians, swinging for the fences as usual, swept their three-game series at Boston yesterday with a 12 to 7 win, their fifth in a row, and they also came up with a triple play. Homers by Larry Doby and Joe Gordon provided the offensive spark against Dave Ferriss and Lou Boudreau started the "rally kill" at shortstop in the

Your nose knows . . . when you have a gas leak!

For your protection an odorant is added to natural gas to help you detect and locate gas leaks in house piping and appliances.

In its natural state the natural gas you use for fuel is an odorless and colorless gas. It is entirely consumed in burning but if house pipes leak or if an unlighted gas burner is turned on accidentally it would be almost impossible to direct the escaping—and wasting—gas.

So For Reasons of Safety We Put an Odor in It!

For the past ten years the Arkansas Louisiana Gas Company has added an odorant to the gas supplied consumers in this community and all the others served by the company. This is in accordance with modern practices of the gas industry and in compliance with state laws requiring it.

The odorant we use is not harmful in any way. It, like the gas itself, is entirely consumed in burning and does not affect the heating value of the gas.

The odorant is purposely made extremely penetrating so as to more quickly call your attention to leaks. Gas users can thus detect any such leaks when they first occur and so are able to obtain fullest benefit from the gas they pay for.

If you ever detect this peculiar odor around your premises, call your plumber at once and have your gas piping and gas appliances carefully checked and necessary repairs made.

Remember . . . the odorant is put in the gas for your protection. Your nose knows . . . your nose tells you . . . when you have gas leaks.

at the one-day meeting here. But most delegations were unofficial and it was questionable exactly how many of the states would actually walk out on the party if it chooses a civil rights nominee.

South Carolina, Mississippi, Arkansas and Alabama appeared definitely committed to the split as their state Democratic executive chairman endorsed the resolution. Alabama, in fact, has already chosen a slate of delegates and electors pledged to oppose Mr. Truman.

Texas and Tennessee also appeared committed. Texas was represented by three men said to be authorized spokesmen of Gov. Beauford Jester, and Col. Roane Waring pledged Tennessee's full cooperation on behalf of powerful Political Leader E. C. Crump.

Georgia, on the other hand, served notice that it would have no part of a party split. State Democratic Chairman James S. Peters withdrew from active participation in the meeting when the resolution was adopted and remained merely as an "observer."

Delegations from Florida, North Carolina, Virginia and Louisiana sat in their allotted sections beneath their respective banners but took little part in proceedings.

to the Senate floor where GOP leaders have promised prompt action.

The $3,198,000,000 air force expansion bill got the nod yesterday from a joint conference committee. Approval of the House and Senate is considered a mere formality.

If President Truman signs the measure, orders for some 4,200 new planes for the air force and navy will be placed without delay.

During the air power controversy, the president stood solidly behind the defense Secretary James Forrestal in his contention that 55 groups fully manned would be adequate for the present. Later, Forrestal agreed to a "compromise" 66-group air force.

The combined draft-UMT bill has met with "general acceptance" within the Armed Services Committee, according to Chairman Chas. Gurney, R., S. D. of the 13 committee members, only Sen. George Wilson, R., Ia., is expected to vote against the measure.

The Senate proposal to "blend" the draft and UMT was offered as a compromise when chances faded for passing universal military training at this session.

It would require 18-year-old trainees to serve 12 months in the regular armed forces, and then three years in an active reserve outfit or four years in the inactive reserve. The measure also would draft 100,000 men a year in the 19-through-25 age bracket for two years of service.

Farm laborers, men with dependents and most veterans would be exempted under the plan. Physicians and dentists up to 45 years of age would have to register. But the bill contains a "safety clause" designed to keep any community from being stripped of adequate medical personnel.

The combined draft-UMT found little favor in the House where the leadership plans to call up a Selective Service bill next week for floor debate. That bill provides for a 19-through-25 draft, but no training for 18-year-olds.

But he failed and yesterday's seizure order was the result.

to settle their wage dispute. David B. Robertson, head of the Firemen and Enginemen, said "these carriers (railroad management) are out of the picture."

They hold considerable resentment because of the government's moves. Glover said: "Now management knows that every time they get in a dog fight the government will step in and act as a strike breaking agent."

Alvanley Johnston, chief of the engineers, said the union men made many concessions in the long and fruitless White House negotiations for a settlement. Among other things, he said, they agreed to accept a 15-1-2 cent an hour wage increase. That was proposed by a presidential fact-finding board and first rejected by the unions.

The three union leaders said they are waiting to hear from Royall what he has to say about the wage dispute. They were to confer with him at 2 p. m. (noon CST).

Royall told his news conference that for the time being the army would make no attempt to settle the dispute.

He said he has asked rail unions to suggest men from their ranks to sit with representatives of rail management on an advisory group during the period of government operation.

Royall gave this account of the army's proposed operating methods:

He has set up seven railroad regions and put each in command of a civilian railroad president. All were made army colonels, will get a colonel's pay and must give up their railroad pay.

The army intends only to supervise the carriers themselves, leaving details to the carriers themselves.

"We will extend our authority only as far as necessary to operate them expeditiously and efficiently. We intend not to want to get into details of operations unless it becomes necessary."

Goldsbrough's "temporary restraining order" (a type of injunction) expires May 19, eight days from today. The judge set a hearing for that date on the government's request for a longer injunction. The three unions will have their chance then to fight back.

There were other question marks.

President Truman had to seize the railroads to ward off the strike. The army thus found itself in technical possession of the country's immense network of railroads.

How would it deal with the unions?

When could it turn the properties back to their owners without risking a new deadlock and an actual strike?

The 11-month-old dispute over wages and working rules is not settled. Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman had labored for days to persuade the railroad operators and the unions to come to an agreement.

But he failed and yesterday's seizure order was the result.

Secretary of the Army Royall planned to confer again some time today with the heads of the three unions: David B. Robertson of the Locomotive Firemen & Engi-

Einaudi Is Top Italian Contender

Rome, May 11—(AP)—Vice Premier Luigi Einaudi emerged today as the leading contender for the presidency of the new Italian republic. Barring unforeseen developments, his election is expected tonight.

Einaudi, 74, backed by the dominant Christian Democratic party, is a political independent. He is budget minister and governor of the bank of Italy.

On the third ballot of a joint session of the Senate and chamber of deputies, Einaudi received 462 votes. This was far short of the two-thirds margin required for election on any of the first three ballots. However, the constitution provides that if the first three ballots are unsuccessful a simple majority rules on the fourth. The Christian Democratic support gave Einaudi more than a simple majority of the 900 votes of the two houses.

Foreign Minister Carlo Sforza, foe of the Communists, withdrew from the race last night after a day of bickering and two unsuccessful ballots. The Christian Democrats then announced they were switching their support to Einaudi, who had received a scattering of votes on the first two ballots.

Provisional President Enrico de Nicola, who had the support of the men; Alvanley Johnston of the Locomotive Engineers; and A. J. Glover of the Switchmen's Union.

Last night, after facing reporters and cameramen at frequent intervals all through a dramatic and swift-changing day, the three union chiefs cooped themselves up in their hotel rooms and let a young assistant, Eddie Gloss, make the announcement the country was waiting to hear.

It was 1:20 p. m., when Gloss stepped out of an elevator into the lobby of the sedate Hamilton hotel and said simply to the waiting newsmen:

"The brotherhoods will comply with the court order. Steps to that effect are being taken immediately."

The "steps" were telegrams the three union heads were rushing to their local officers. The messages went out so late that not all the 150,000 workers involved were expected to get the word in time. Some confusion appeared probable.

But without the court order and the unions' obedience the strike would have begun at 6 o'clock in each time zone this morning.

The Goldsbrough order said the threatened strike would deprive the country of essential transportation, hamper commerce, obstruct the mails, imperil the national health and safety, frustrate the powers conferred on the government's executive branch by the constitution, and cause "irreparable injury" to the nation.

The judge ordered the three unions to withdraw their strike notice "forthwith" and not permit or encourage a walkout.

The union leaders telegrams, after describing the order, said the strike is "herely canceled" and all employees should "continue to report for duty."

Thus the government had beaten down another major strike by using the injunction weapon.
